

Pre-tenure Instructional Load in School of Education

To promote the development of each tenure-track faculty member's scholarly agenda and to promote the likelihood of achieving tenure and promotion, the School of Education will assign to such faculty members a reduced teaching load. All tenure track faculty members in the School of Education appointed on or after September 1, 2012, shall have a maximum course load of two courses per semester for the duration of their probationary period.